THE WEREWOLF'S JOURNEY

The Story

Sara Nguyen, a young woman harboring a horrible secret, arrives in a town near the House on the Hill after traveling from far away. She is mysteriously drawn to the house and is both sad and hopeful as she stares at a picture on her phone. The picture slowly changes to an old photo of her father fishing with her when she was a child. But she has not seen her father in many years and is desperate to find him. Is he at the House on the Hill? And what is Sara's secret?

Still in town, Sara is famished after her journey and orders lunch at a diner. She eats the bloody burgers quickly, but they sicken her. She throws some money down and finds a restroom, where she fights off a frightening transformation. Yet the forces she struggles against continue to envelop her. She runs out into the street, searching for a safe place.

Later, Sara finds her way to the town cemetery where she sits down to rest among the headstones. Are any of her long-lost family members buried here? She sees a man walking a small white dog. With a powerful hunger consuming her, she focuses on the dog. Even her special book, the Libra Maleficarum, which has guided her as she battles the curse that afflicts her, can't help her fight this vicious hunger. She moves for the dog but his owner angrily scoops him up and runs to safety.

Her hunger unsatisfied, Sara searches her bag for food and finds some old candy to eat. It's not enough. She again pulls out the Libra Maleficarum and studies its worn pages and the precious picture of her father.

The next morning she awakes, still in the cemetery. She must make her way to the House on the Hill. But the dog walker from last night forcefully heads toward her, pointing, as if he was looking for her. He is accompanied by two police officers. She runs as fast as she can to avoid capture. Hours later, she is at the House on the Hill.
